The WALK® is the vehicle life-saving kit for the Department of Defense.

North American Rescue® pays attention. We listen. We learn. We act. We develop products like the Warrior Aid and Litter Kit (WALK®), our innovative and reliable response to requests from Warfighters and Tactical Healthcare Professionals to re-think the purpose of vehicle life-saving kits and re-engineer them to decrease preventable death.

Success is confirmed. The US Army selected the WALK® as its official vehicle life-saving kit. How did we do it?

First, we gathered as much information as possible to correctly define the requirement. From numerous observations and after-action reviews compiled from operations Enduring and Iraqi Freedom, we learned that a new focus was needed for vehicle first-aid kits. From Warfighters and Tactical Healthcare Professionals, we learned that the focus ought to be decreasing preventable combat death at the point of wounding.

With the task defined, we developed the product. The Warrior Aid & Litter Kit (WALK®) allows first-aid treatment and immediate evacuation of one patient in a non-traditional vehicle, plus it allows multiple other trauma patients to be treated until additional transport arrives. That's successful engineering.

Our engineers took the state-of-the-art Talon 90C (a quad-fold rigid litter with retractable handle system) and designed a package that holds not only the litter, but also a streamlined pocket-system containing self- and buddy-aid medical supplies. The WALK® gives true definition to the term aid and litter kit. The WALK® also contains our Hypothermia Prevention & Management Kit (HPMK) to help stabilize patients during transport.

Light and compact, the WALK® reduces cubic weight and, thereby, evacuation time. The WALK® interfaces with any standard or non-standard casualty evacuation asset and is ideal as part of the pre-positioning of medical supplies or cache for disaster response. The WALK® has adjustable shoulder straps for occasions when the kit is used to provide treatment and evacuation on target. Bags may also be purchased separately.

North American Rescue® is customer-centric. We don't develop solutions to impose on demands. We develop solutions to meet demands.
